Dear Mr. Hammond,

The Protein Potential IBC has implemented written policies for the identification, review, and oversight of research involving any of the seven categories of experiments of concern identified by the national Academies of Science in its report Biotechnology Research in an Age of Terrorism (The "Pink Committee" report).

Attached are the minutes of our IBC meetings. Please let me know if you have further questions.

Sincerely,

Institutional Biosafety Committee Meeting to discuss the SBIR Phase II on 'Production of purified recombinant proteins for development of vaccines of military importance'.

AGENDA of meeting on 5/27/04

- Distribution of proposal
- Discussion on details and description of methodology section
- Q & A
- Recommendations
- Close

1) The meeting was with all members of the Committee:

Dr. Minglin Li, Hong Liang, Emily Chen, Dr. Gliceria Smith and Debbi Kirshner

2) The proposal to be discussed "Production of purified recombinant proteins for development of vaccines of military importance" was presented by Dr. Kim Lee Sim.

3) The Committee questioned about the methods of disposal of biological material, and importance of the use of the zeocin marker. The main comment was that the protocol used involved very standard and basic techniques.

4) The Committee agreed that the protocol discussed was clearly within the regulations and safety levels of Protein Potential's laboratories, and that the guidelines of the laboratories were adequate to handle the protocol. The Committee agreed that the protocol should be allowed and thus Protein Potential could go ahead with the work.
