Hi friends,

A couple of months ago, I did a 10-minute "Ag Update" live radio interview on a local AM broadcast with Michael Olson. We covered a bit about the GBIRD investigation, and the interview went pretty well although I would have liked a bit more time to focus on our partnership.

We're working up a transcript of that story so we can post it and the audio file as a blog, soon.

In the meantime, Michael has been trying to get me back for his hour-long, syndicated, program Food Chain Radio. That is happening tomorrow at 9AM Pacific time. He's intent on focusing on the Island Conservation/invasive species side of this story, and asked me to recruit one of our project managers to participate as well. However, neither Karl nor Gregg are available. When gene drives come up, I'll be doing my best to represent the GBIRD partnership and values!

You can tune in and listen live tomorrow if you like: <http://metrofarm.com/michael-olson/invasive-species/>

I'm sure we'll be able to get an audio file and produce another blog for this one as well.

Best,

Heath Packard
